RUSSIA SUPPLYING MOST OF RED ARMS

By United Press

The UN command in Tokyo says Russia and her satellites are providing most of the weapons used by Communist forces in Korea. But as far as allied pilots are concerned, it doesn't make any difference where the enemy planes come from—it's where they go that's important.

And today, the UN airmen proved it. They sent seven Russian-built MIG-jets hurtling to the ground.

The action started when a group of fighter-bombers staged an all-out attack on North Korean railroad lines. Some 80 red MIGs swarmed across the Yalu River from Manchuria to drive them off. But 60 American Sabrejets barred the way.

The Sabrejets engaged in three separate dogfights with the MIGs—shot down seven red planes and damaged three others. The rest of the MIGs—scattered back to their Yalu river sanctuary.

The fighter-bombers then went on with their work and dropped some-half million pounds of bombs on 15 miles of track.

The statement from General Matthew Ridgway's headquarters says the Russians have supplied everything from tanks to pistols to red forces in Korea. It says most of the Soviet weapons are models from before World War Two—some even dating back to 1902. But, the statement says, they all are effective and adequate.

The official report shows why the United Nations does not consider Russia a neutral in the Korean conflict. And it demonstrates why the UN opposes Russia as one of the neutral force supervisors.

The allied report left little to take about at the Panmunjom conference today. The UN delegates stated their position in six minutes—and then left everything in the hands of the Communists.

The conference on prisoners of war exchange still is in Moscow. But Rear Admiral R. E. Libby later told newsmen that nothing was accomplished. He said he no longer will listen to the reds' insulting remarks about the UN.

"There is a limit beyond which we are not going to go. I am not going to sit and listen to that tripe. I'll just get up and walk out."

Newsmen at the truce camps learned that members of the red armistice delegation have received anti-bubonic plague inoculations as a result of a meeting in China and North Korea.

The reds accuse the UN of starting the black death—of dropping disease germs over Communist territory. The UN has denied it. Brigadier General W. E. Chamberlain, the chief UN surgeon, says the UN still is trying to find out just what sickness is raging behind Communist lines.

The Communists apparently have completed their latest purge in Czechoslovakia.

They've thrown out Secretary-General Rudolph Slansky of the Czech Communist Party. And apparently they've gotten rid of Slansky's immediate followers.

Slansky himself is reported to have returned to Czechoslovakia after questioning in Moscow. Unconfirmed reports say several other Czechs still are in Moscow—charged like Slansky, with plotting against the Communist government.

Father And Son Appear Today On Murder Charge

By United Press

A father and son appeared before quarterly Court Judge John A. Fulton in Louisville this morning to answer charges that they kidnapped Attorney Francis J. McCormack, beat him to death and threw his body into the Harrods Creek.

Roy Tarrence and his husky son, Army Private Leonard Tarrence, appeared with their court-appointed lawyer, Foster Stone. After conferring with Stone, both men faced Judge Fulton and quietly said they pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder.

Both were held without bond, and will appear for examining trial in the same court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Leonard, an AWOL soldier from Ft. Knox, has confessed that he and his father forced McCormack into a car near his home in Louisville on February 23rd, drove him to a spot on the creek bank east of Louisville, beat him to death and threw his body into the creek.

The son, dressed in blue denim, maintained his undisturbed alibi, jaunty air. But his father appeared more concerned over the possible death sentence they face.

Also present in court was Mrs. Roy Tarrence, wife and mother of the two accused men. She obviously had been under extreme emotional stress.

Requirements Are Changed For WACS

T-Sgt Howard G. Wheatcroft of the U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, located at 100 North 5th Street, Murray, Ky., announced today that there has been a change in the educational requirements for women desiring to enlist in the Women's Army Corps and in the Women in the Air Force.

Prior to this change in the regulations it was necessary to have a high school diploma. However, it is now possible to take a test equivalent to a high school education, and qualify.

Interested applicants should contact Sgt. Wheatcroft at the local Recruiting Station for complete information.

Open House To Be Held At New Hotel

Open house for an inspection of all of its facilities will be held March 15 at the Kenlake Hotel, the new 800 room hotel at Kentucky Lake State Park, the Division of Parks announced today.

The Kenlake will be opened today for business, and guests and visitors will be shown through the rooms, lounge, dining room and kitchen throughout the day until 4 p. m.

The open house is expected to attract numerous visitors, because there has been considerable interest during construction of the hotel, which is regarded as the most modern park hotel in the nation.

The hotel was named in a recent contest which attracted 4,000 suggestions. Robert A. Blair, of Corbin, first submitted the name picked by a committee.

The dining room at the new hotel also will be opened for business March 15. Plans are to have a year-around operation at the Kenlake, Henry Ward State Commissioner of Conservation, announced.

Kentucky Lake State Park is a 1,400-acre tract located on Kentucky Lake 20 miles south of Paducah, at a point where U. S. Highway 68 crosses the lake via Eschner's Ferry bridge. It is 40 miles from Paducah and Hopkinsville and 16 miles from Murray.

Colonel Gingles Is Assigned To Hospital In Honolulu, Hawaii

Colonel Charles H. Gingles, MC, of Murray, Kentucky, has been assigned to Tripler Army Hospital, Honolulu, Hawaii, as Deputy Commander of the Hospital.

Born in Kirksay, Kentucky, Colonel Gingles received his degree in medicine from the University of Oklahoma. He entered the military service in 1917.

Prior to his current assignment he was on duty in the Office of The Surgeon General, Washington, D. C.

With his wife, the former Mary Frances Royals of Meridian, Mississippi, Colonel Gingles is making his home at Fort Kaneham, a historical old coast artillery base near Pearl Harbor.

Price Control Argued By Two Senators

By United Press

Two members of the Senate Banking Committee took opposite sides last night in a television debate over whether the nation needs a stronger price control law.

Democratic Senator William Benton of Connecticut said we do not need a strong law, that various amendments adopted by Congress last year weakened the present law to the point that we still face the danger of inflation.

Republican Senator Caperhart of Indiana, who was the author of one of those amendments, said he doesn't know how Congress could write a better control law. He quoted Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam as saying that the danger of inflation has been linked under the present law.

Senator Walter George of Georgia, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, says military spending will have to be cut next year, no matter what George says. Congress should aim at trimming seven billion dollars off President Truman's $3 and a half-billion dollar budget. And he says the cuts will have to hit both civilian and military spending.

Agriculture Department experts say food prices will go tumbling in the next few months, partly because of seasonal increases in food supplies, but they aren't sure about the housewife. They say farm prices are bound to go down on such things as beef, poultry, eggs and some fresh vegetables. But they say the cost of processing and marketing the food is climbing steadily, and they can't say how much of the money which is taken out of the farmer's pocketbook will be put into the housewife's purse.

The nation's total payroll hit an all-time high in January 1952 and a half billion dollars, figured on an annual basis. But most of this increase was due to an increase of 300 million dollars in the annual rate of government payrolls, not because of higher salaries, but because of more workers. Private payrolls dropped 100 million.

And labor secretary Maurice Tobin reports that the number of workers seeking unemployment compensation dropped off by 100,000 last month. He says the decline represents a normal leveling off after the seasonal round of lay-offs after the holiday rush.

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

If there is another Jim Williams in Murray he can drop by the Ledger & Times and pick up a letter we have for him. In fact we have two of them.

We wondered what was going on when we got two letters saying we had requested the poem "Wits End Corner" and here it is.

Anyway if there is a Jim Williams who wants the poem he can come by the office and we can give him the two letters.

Don't get downhearted over the rain after that fine day yesterday. That is just another sign of Spring.

Was a hard rain though.

The Crockett Times says "For nearly twenty years we have lived under the 'New Deal' and 'Fair Deal.' Most of the candidates are now offering a 'Big Deal.' Take your choice and let's hope we don't get a 'Raw Deal.'"

In this case we think that "Raw" is synonymous with "New" and "Fair."

The three year old surprised us last night by acting half human in church.

We praised him highly for his good conduct and we thought he was going into spasms from laughing so much.

Guess he figured it was all so different from the last Sunday when we had to apply some psychology after we got home.

The column we spoke of Saturday didn't get in but it appears in today's issue.

Methodists Have Conference Here Yesterday Afternoon

A Christian stewardship conference for the Murray Sub-District of the Methodist church was held from 2 to 4:30 p. m. the First Methodist Church here yesterday.

The conference was one of more than 50 follow-up meetings for the Methodist Louisville Area Christian Stewardship Conference attended by about 400 Methodist leaders March 4-6 at Fourth Avenue Methodist Church, Louisville.

In the sub-district conference, leaders trained at the Area-wide meeting in Louisville in turn, train local-church leaders in the philosophy and practice of Christian stewardship.

The Rev. Dr. E. Lamont Geisinger, Chicago, who directed the Louisville Area Christian Stewardship Conference, will attend several of the sub-district meetings. He is in charge of the Department of Stewardship of the Methodist General Board of Lay Activities.

Sharpe Is Winner Of Fourth District Tournament Saturday

By Bill Smith

Sharpe won the fourth district case title by downing Brewers 55-46 in the tournament finals last Saturday night at the Carr Health Building.

The Green Devils led all the way and were never in serious trouble after the opening minutes when the Red Devils knocked the Green Devils out of the game.

Sharpe broke out of the 4-11 hole and built up a commanding 30-14 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Green Devils were easily on their heels from the start as they outscored Brewers 3-0 in the final six minutes of the first quarter.

The winners showed up playing the second and third quarters being content to hold their early lead. They led 29-15 at halftime and 41-23 after three periods of action.

Sharpe and Brewers will participate in the East Regional Tournament to be played here this week. Brewers will oppose Symons in the first game of the tournament at 7:30 Wednesday night and Sharpe will tangle with Bardwell Thursday night at 8:00.

AAUW To See Film At March 11 Meet

Members of the Murray branch of AAUW will see a short movie concerning the rehabilitation of European and Asiatic children at the association's meeting March 11.

Mrs. Robert H. Hays, program chairman, has announced.

The rehabilitation film was depicted in the movie has been done by the United Nations Children's Fund, Mrs. Hays said.

WITNESS SURE LOOKS SHIPSHAPE

AUTEOUS MRS. OLGA KONOW, New York ship operator named as a witness in one tanker deal under investigation by a committee headed by Senator Clyde R. Hoey (D., North Carolina), is shown as she reported to testify in Washington. She is named as one of the three principals who ran a $101,000 investment to $3,250,000 in three years by transfer of surplus tankers to a corporation controlled by Chinese nationalists. Inset shows Robert W. Dudley, called to tell probers what he did to earn $79,500 cash and $107,000 in stock as attorney fees in the deal. He said his job was to see that tanker purchase applications didn't get waylaid. Mrs. Konow said she owned one tanker and was president of a corporation owning two others. The committee seeks to find out whether transfer of the ships to foreign control was a violation of law.

Purcell's 532 Highlights Year

Bennie Purcell, one of the all-time greats of Murray basketball, led the Thorobreds scoring this season with a total of 532 points. This set a new school scoring record for one season, and broke the old mark of 366 points set last season by Garrett Beshar.

Purcell also set a new individual scoring record for one game as he tallied 41 points against Kentucky Wesleyan at Owensboro January 19.

Bennie, the first player in Murray history to score more than 500 points in one season, scored 137 field goals in 540 attempts for a percentage of 34.1. He hit 158 out of 206 free throws for a percentage of 77.1 from the foul line.

Purcell averaged 18.3 points a game for 29 games, including OVC tournament play. His average for the regular season was 18.4.

Garrett Beshar, the sensational 30-year-old junior from Dawson Springs, was the Breds' second high scorer with a total of 459 points in 28 games.

Beshar hit 179 field goals and 103 free throws. His shooting percentage from the field was 39.7, and he had an average of 16.3 points a game.

Lamley Scores 293

Charlie Lamley, the ball-hawking senior from Sharpe, was next in line on the scoring with 293 points and an average of 10.1 a contest. Charlie hit for 110 shots from the field and added 74 tosses from the foul line.

Big Melvin Dewese had the best shooting percentage on the squad as he connected on 98 shots from the floor in 210 tries for 46.2.

Dewese scored 275 points in 29 games for a 9.5 average a game. He was also the Breds' ace rebounder with 318.

Gene Garrett, who played 14 games for the Breds before being called into the Armed Forces, was the fifth high scorer with 148 points and a 10.5 average per game.

Joe Miller, who took over a starting position after Garrett left, played in 23 games and scored 136 points. He finished the season with a 5.9 average per game.

Rich Gott, who started two games for the Breds on the Eastern road trip, hit 491 from the floor on 35 shots in 78 attempts. He had 15 free throws in 20 tries and an average of 3.8 points a game.

Averages Given

The other players, total points, and average points a game were as follows: Bobby Clark, 59, 3.2; Glen Jeffrey, 48, 2.1; J. M. Gipe, 35, 2.1; Carlos Bailey, 30, 2.0; Keri Hussung, 5, 0.7; and Ted Koenigsnick, 2, 0.3.

The Thorobreds, need to 11 straight victories at the start of the season before bowing to the University of Dayton at Dayton, Ohio January 5 by a score of 69-55.

Murray opened their season with a 75-37 over Southeastern Louisiana at Murray December 3, knocking the Rebels out of the Breds' defense with 20 points.

Three nights later, December 6, the Breds had a tough time with Tennessee Tech before finally gaining a 51-46 decision over the Eagles at Cookeville.

Murray followed up their win over Tech with two more victories over Morehead, 81-61, and Evansville 82-59. After that they took to the road for games with Marshall and Marshall. The Rebels dumped Morehead 74-62 on December 13 and Marshall 77-63 at Huntington December 15. Beshar poured in 22 points against the Herd to pace the Murray attack.

Coach Hodges' charges returned home for a bit of a rest after a long battle with the Rebels at Dayton, Ohio January 5.

Two nights later the Rebels suffered their first loss of the season as they took a 69-55 lacing at Dayton, Ohio January 7.

After the loss to Dayton the Breds went into a hiatus and lost three straight games, losing to Eastern 61-63 at Richmond, February 7, Western 77-64 at Murray January 12, and Memphis State 51-47 at Memphis January 15.

The Thorobreds' snapped their four game losing streak with a preliminary 62-53 win over Marshall in Cedar-Road building January 17. Bennie Purcell led the attack with 26 points. Dewese was a close second with 25.

Kentucky Wesleyan scored a 102-101 win over the Rebels at Owensboro January 19 in a thrilling overtime game. Purcell took scoring honors for the game with 41 points.

Murray rebounded from the loss to Wesleyan and racked up five wins in a row by knocking over Eastern 79-55, Austin Peay 85-64, Evansville 93-58, Memphis State 73-70 in a double overtime, and Union University of Jackson, Tenn. 92-70.

Loss in The East

The Rebels took a two game swing through the east and dropped decisions to St. Bonaventure, 74-63, at Olean, N. Y., February 7 and La Salle college of Philadelphia 102-52, February 9.

Murray blasted out an 85-67 win over Tennessee Tech at Murray February 13 as Bennie Purcell scored 29 points. The Breds closed out their regular season against Western at Bowling Green February 16 as they lost to the Hilltoppers by a score of 97-63.

Murray, defending OVC champs, opened the OVC tournament with a 81-59 overtime win over the Tennessee Tech Golden Eagles.

The next night they downed Eastern 69-50 in the semi-finals to gain their berth in the finals against Western.

The Rebels chose to play a slow, deliberate type ball in the finals and their tactics almost paid off. After a tough game the Breds hours.

WAXEY GORDON AND 22 OTHERS INDICTED ON NARCOTICS CHARGE

By United Press

Mobster Waxey Gordon and 22 others have been indicted by a federal grand jury in San Francisco on charges of running a nationwide narcotics ring.

Gordon and the other members of the ring were indicted on evidence that they supplied millions of dollars worth of heroin to addicts from coast to coast. Officials say it's the biggest collection of big-time narcotics violators in one indictment. The ring was allegedly supplied by Gordon who is reported to have obtained the heroin from Italian seamen arriving at east coast ports.

Six of those indicted, including Gordon, are already serving long prison sentences. Federal officials say they expect to take and their tactics almost paid off. After a tough game the Breds hours.

More Gambling Raids Are Held By State Police Early Today

COVINGTON March 7 (UP)—State police have arrested 18 persons and seized a variety of gambling equipment in an early morning raid today on Covington's plush Lockout House Night Club.

Some 30 plainclothesmen and uniformed state police troopers conducted the raid on the swank night spot which figured prominently in the Senate Crime investigation committee hearings last summer.

The raid has been carried out "quietly with no trouble whatsoever."

The troopers surrounded the night club after arriving in a bus and three police cars.

All persons who have been arrested in the raid are charged with setting up and operating a game of chance, according to state police.

The highly secret raid had been set up at Lexington after careful planning. Troopers and their vehicles had assembled at the University of Kentucky (Columbia) while a basketball game was going on inside.

The raid on the Lockout House is the third raid that has been staged by state police in the Covington area since the "heat" turned on gambling after the crime commission's investigation.

Senator Estes Kefauver, who headed the senate committee, had advised a crackdown on the Lockout House and other spots in the Covington-Newport area.

Nall Appointed To West Virginia Publicity Group

Mr. John L. Nall, former Murray State college student, has been appointed assistant to the director of the West Virginia Industrial and Publicity commission, according to information received here this week.

Mr. Nall, a native of Mayfield, studied journalism and photography at Murray State and Ohio university. He graduated from the latter in 1947.

Mr. Nall has recently been associated with the merchandising division of the Proctor and Gamble company in the Charleston area.

Nall will be responsible for the industrial and publicity commission's photography program and will assist with national advertising and publicity in both travel and industrial development fields, according to Mr. Robert W. McKinnon, executive director of the commission.

During World War II, Nall served with the Army Air Force in the European theatre of operations. He holds a commission as captain in the Air Force reserve.

'Don O' Tilts' Screen Mar. 14

"Don Quixote," a full length technical color motion picture, will be presented by the Spanish club in the College auditorium Friday, March 14.

The picture is two and a half hours long, and is the same film that was shown in Nashville, Louisville and other cities some two years ago. An adaptation of Cervantes' famous novel, "Don Quixote," it is directed by Rafael Gil, one of Spain's foremost directors, and has a fine cast, elaborate sets, and lavish costumes, according to Miss Annie Smith, Spanish club sponsor.

Has English Subtitles

The film has complete English subtitles so that persons not familiar with the Spanish language can enjoy it, she said.

The film gives a picture of every phase of Spanish life in the latter part of the 16th century. It tells of an old fellow so bemused by his reading of valiant adventures that nothing will deter him from setting forth to slay tyrants and rescue fair ladies.

Immune To Scorn

Immune to the scorn, humiliation and baiting of his neighbors, the ageing seer gets himself knighted by a friendly innkeeper in a ritual which consists of reading from a menu, goes jousting with windmills which present themselves to him as monstrous giants, engages a flock of sheep which he fancies to be a pagan army, and on several occasions is duped by well-meaning friends who encourage the Don in his Quixotic encounters.

The film is scheduled to be shown three times: 2:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m., and 7:00 p.m. A small admission price has been set, according to Miss Smith.

Religious Emphasis Gobhart is Speaker

Dr. Herbert Gobhart, pastor of the McLean Baptist church, Memphis, will be the speaker for Religious Emphasis Week, Dean J. Matt Sparkman has announced.

Religious Emphasis week will be held April 22-30. In previous years it has been observed for four days on our campus, but this year it has been cut to three days, in order not to conflict with the speaker's engagements elsewhere.

Gregory Oliver, from Paducah, was elected president of the Industrial Arts club at a recent meeting of the group.

The other officers elected were Ted Pettis, vice-president; Burns Davis, secretary; Gene Geun, treasurer; and Paul Lyons, public relations.

Oliver is a junior and an industrial arts major. He transferred to Murray from Paducah Junior college.

'Don O' Tilts' Screen Mar. 14

"Don Quixote," a full length technical color motion picture, will be presented by the Spanish club in the College auditorium Friday, March 14.

The picture is two and a half hours long, and is the same film that was shown in Nashville, Louisville and other cities some two years ago. An adaptation of Cervantes' famous novel, "Don Quixote," it is directed by Rafael Gil, one of Spain's foremost directors, and has a fine cast, elaborate sets, and lavish costumes, according to Miss Annie Smith, Spanish club sponsor.

Has English Subtitles

The film has complete English subtitles so that persons not familiar with the Spanish language can enjoy it, she said.

The film gives a picture of every phase of Spanish life in the latter part of the 16th century. It tells of an old fellow so bemused by his reading of valiant adventures that nothing will deter him from setting forth to slay tyrants and rescue fair ladies.

Immune To Scorn

Immune to the scorn, humiliation and baiting of his neighbors, the ageing seer gets himself knighted by a friendly innkeeper in a ritual which consists of reading from a menu, goes jousting with windmills which present themselves to him as monstrous giants, engages a flock of sheep which he fancies to be a pagan army, and on several occasions is duped by well-meaning friends who encourage the Don in his Quixotic encounters.

The film is scheduled to be shown three times: 2:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m., and 7:00 p.m. A small admission price has been set, according to Miss Smith.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

IT WAS the student quality of the voice that persuaded Liddell that he was still alive. Each time the speaker emphasized a point, it drove red hot iron through his skull. He had difficulty remembering where he was, or what had happened, but he began to come back to him.

He tried to move his arms, found them bound behind his back. His legs had been similarly treated. From the stiffness of his quarters, he realized that he had been dumped into a chest somewhere.

Outside, the strident tones continued to pierce the thin glass wall and send sparks of pain to the back of Liddell's eyes. He was aware that one of the voices had a familiar tone, but it took moments of intense concentration before he knew why it sounded familiar. It was the raspy, flat voice of Goldy, the woman he had come to know. He strained his ears to hear what she was saying.

"I tell you with Hunt dead we've got to handle this situation, Ben," she insisted. "We've got to get it through. Things are getting not and I want to get out. But I want to get mine before I do."

The other voice seemed to protest, but Goldy shouted him down. "They'll pay plenty for this stuff, I tell you. Ben took a lot of chances getting these plans for them. They'll pay plenty. And there's only a two way out now. She continued to pour the persuasion on heavily. "We can't wait any longer. The Feds will find out this stuff is missing from the files and the heat will really arrive."

The other voice continued to protest, but Ben vigorously told Liddell couldn't make out the words but the tone of surrender was apparent.

"I knew you'd be smart," Goldy smiled. "You set it up for us to get out of here. You can handle the short wave as well as Hunt ever could. We can get this stuff over to them tonight, then hold up until the payoff."

Liddell struggled with his bonds, felt one of the ropes slip, started to work on it in earnest. Here was an angle even the Treasury Department didn't have, the sale of military secrets, the existence of an unsuspected short wave contact with a foreign power, the ransom set-up had overthrown into confusion.

Inside the room there were sounds of the two males ready to leave. When footsteps approached where he was sprawled out, he slipped back, feigned unconsciousness.

The door opened, a flash of light almost blinded Liddell as it poured from the room into the clerk's dark recesses. He could smell the cheap perfume as Goldy walked over him, peered at him closely. Then the door swung shut, leaving Liddell alone. But it was not shut closely enough to shut out sound.

"You know the way to the sending station, don't you, Ben?" Goldy asked.

Celia's voice was querulous. "Of course I know where it is. It was my idea to use a boat so they couldn't trace where it was."

Goldy grinned. "Okay, so you're a big brain. So it was your idea to use the Sea Nymph. All I got to say is it's good the idea was worked out. You only got one wrong guess. There was the sound of a chair scraping back. "Let's go."

Liddell waited until he heard the sound of a door closing in the outer chamber, then started to work on his bonds. The loop around his right wrist started to slip, made a sick that gave him something to work with.

The penetration beamed his forehead, rolled down into his eyes, blinding him. He moved under his watch as the rope cut into his flesh, worked all the harder. After what seemed hours, the loop slipped over his wrist, leaving him free to free his other hand and his feet.

in on the finish, first-hand service stuff.

"Nothing doing. These people are killers. I tell you they've got nothing to lose. They're a gang of spies and they're in a corner."

"Sister, I go, Johnny, or I don't give you the location of the Sea Nymph."

Liddell muttered fervently under his breath. "Okay, play cute. Act like a dame. I'll get it some place else."

Mugsy sampled her coffee, added more sugar. "Go ahead. By the time you get it, they'll be gone. It you could save your skin, you wouldn't have called me," she added sweetly.

Liddell sneezed his head. "No deal."

Mugsy shrugged. "Okay. But if I were you, I'd be sensible and let me come along."

Liddell stole a look at his watch. "Okay, you win. But don't forget. You asked for the Sea Nymph."

"Manuscript the factor. Out on the strand. She's a big power cruiser." Mugsy hunted through her bag, came up with a piece of copy paper bearing a set of scribbled notations. "Registered in the name of Huntington, Ben." She looked up. "That's this up in a nice fancy package. He dumped a handful of silver on the table, started to get up.

"What are you going to do, Johnny?"

"What do you think I'm going to do?" Liddell got out to the boat and trying to evade the score with Goldy and Celia. Then I'm calling in the boys and dumping the whole mess into their laps, all wrapped up in pretty pink paper."

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

AS JOHNNY LIDDELL looked to his third cup of coffee, Mugsy Kitchner slid into the seat beside him. She stared at the discolored glass just under the narthex, whistled soundlessly.

"You're a detective who really uses his head, aren't you? What happened?"

"I got too close to Goldy and she let me have it. With a snap," he investigated the top of his head gingerly. "And don't think that baby doesn't know how to use it."

"You got close to her?"

Liddell nodded. "I was sneaking around her. She must have heard me, because she waited until I got close enough, then she lowered the boom."

"You're sure it was Goldy?"

"Positive. When I started to go out, I grabbed for whoever it was. I got a handful of skirt. He finished his coffee, signaled the waitress to bring two more cups. "When I came in, she was sitting in the room with Ben Kitchner."

"Too bad you couldn't hold onto her."

Liddell grimaced. "Too bad my pants weren't strapped. Did you get what I wanted?"

"Maybe."

"What do you mean, maybe? I told you it was ruff. Did you get it?"

Mugsy waited until the waitress had placed the coffee in front of them and retired beyond earshot. "Where do I fit in this deal, Johnny?" she wanted to know.

"We've been through all that. You can give me the stuff in five minutes if you want."

Mugsy shook her head. "That was the deal. This story's getting bigger all the time. I want to be

Here And There

News coming in of new homes under construction here, there and yonder.

A three acre purchase of ground near Unity School will be the future home site of Mrs. Lillie Henderson.

Building material for the new home is being trucked from Corinth, Mississippi by trucker, Dees Elkins.

Carpenters Dalton Henson and Lex Warren have the building contract. The acres for the new home were formerly owned by Mr. Warren.

New home underway in Hardin for Mr. Reddie Gay, a citizen of this small town.

Case of mumps reported in the large family of Mr. and Mrs. Dees Elkins of Protemus.

The successful efforts of providing revenue officers recently, recently makes it hard for reporters of rural districts to gather news usable to the press.

Narrowly escaping the misfortune of blindness last week, Charles Mathis of near Hardin gratefully mentions his thankfulness to the Gods of fortune while telling of a recovery from a horrifying eye accident. He was blinded temporarily last Tuesday by a mild acid explosion at the Pennsalt Plant. Company doctor of the Pennsalt Plant could not be located at the moment of the accident so the blind victim was rushed to Murray where Dr. Hugh Houston successfully treated the acid-burned eyes. Mathis says he was checking pressure of an acid gauge when the accidental explosion occurred. Bodily position of the moment being necessary such that the acid blast struck him fully in the face, unable to see and fearfully aware as to know possibilities of other explosions being a most likely outcome if proper action was not immediately taken, he blindly groped his way to aid that fortunately arrived on the scene of the explosion in time to prevent more acid-exploding troubles.

More troubles of the Mathis family include the illness of baby, Mitchell O'Shane. He's been badly sick with influenza, flu.

Gardening season of '52 is in. The buying and setting of cabbage plants has begun.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Jones, grocery keepers the Hardin Highway, had as recent guests in their home, Mr. and Mrs. Purdon Sweet, relatives of Detroit.

Unfortunately, the visiting Sweet family were victims of a car accident while enroute back to Detroit.

Hospitalization was necessary but extent of injuries was unlearned.

The year of 1936 was evidently a leap year also and according to dates in history, a historical one. On February 29, 1936 the Seminoles, a tribe of American Indians, attacked U.S. troops in Florida.

Woodland ways of wayfaries are the only ways of travel according to Mr. Press Turner, an oldtimer of Trigg and Callaway counties. Many is the time he has been heard to say that he wouldn't trade the cattle paths and wagon trails of the woods for any modern roadways ever built by man.

Through the woods in scouting fashion, with gun shoulder, has habitually been Mr. Turner's life. Mr. Turner is a great lover of God's natural creation.

To this date the aged "Uncle Press" is still using his preferred ways and means of travel, although the pace is very slow and quite very feeble. Only last week this bearded old fellow of Highland Ridge was seen emerging from the woods of Kicks Ridge to mosey slowly along a gravel road on two canes, enroute to the Pease burial ceremony took place at Palestine Cemetery, February 27, for Mrs. Teeny Scott.

BOY, 13, ADMITS GIRL'S MURDER

13-YEAR-OLD Harold Lorentson, Smithtown, L. I., faces possible first degree murder charge after admitting he strangled Lyde Kitchner, 12, by pulling her hair around her neck in a wooded lot when she refused to let him kiss her and threatened to "tell the teacher." Her body was found Nov. 29. (International)

Thompson is Chairman

Miss Billie Jean Thompson, senior from Camden, Tenn., has been appointed general chairman of the campaign at the campus. Carl E. May, senior from Elkton, Ky., was selected as campaign chairman.

Other chairmen are Wanda Calhoun, secretary; Betty Robison, publicity; Jean Burnett, transportation; and Jacqueline Gardner, program. Mrs. Harlan Hodges is the adult advisor for the campaign.

Details Settled

The 1952 campaign began on March 3 at the kick-off banquet held at the Murray Woman's Club house. All details and last minute instructions were announced at the dinner. The musical program for the evening was arranged by Miss Jacqueline Gardner, program chairman.

Mr. Buford Hurt of Murray is chairman of the 1952 Red Cross campaign in Calloway county. The quota for Calloway is $4,450.

Charles Dale Rosenberger's mother stands on chair to measure his 6-foot 7 1/2-inch height in their Los Angeles home on learning his new draft classification is 4-F. Charles just grew out of 1-A. When the 20-year-old registered in 1949 he was 6 feet 5 inches. Army's limit is 6 feet 6 inches. sq board reclassified him. (International Soundphoto)

Second Lump Of Sugar In Coffee Does Little Good

Don't reach for that extra lump of sugar. It won't make your coffee much sweeter.

According to a psychology professor at Hobart and William Smith Colleges, that second lump of sugar doesn't make your coffee twice as sweet. The third and fourth lumps have even less value. Professor Sheldon MacLeod recently completed a two-year experiment on the relation of sugar to sweetness. Using three students as subjects, MacLeod established a taste curve. He found that ability to detect increased sweetness falls off sharply after a certain concentration of sugar.

In a cup of coffee, the professor estimated, two lumps give just about the maximum sweetness for all practical purposes. After that the curve flattens off. The third lump adds very little. Additional lumps make the coffee more syrupy in body but apparently not much sweeter to the taste.

They say—there is no advantage in combining a mild or neutral product designed for gentle washing of fine fabrics, with another to which an alkaline builder has been added for laundering heavily soiled fabric. It's like a team pulling in opposite directions. As for mixing synthetic detergents, some types nullify the cleansing power of others when used together.

Laundering Experts Say Don't Mix Odds And Ends Of Soap

Laundering specialists in the department of agriculture warn housewives that too many soaps may spoil the wash.

Mixing odds and ends of soap with synthetic detergents—just to use them up, for instance—may result in a wash that won't come clean.

They advise using a product according to instructions on the package. If it isn't satisfactory, try another next time. The laundry experts point out that soaps and detergents on sale today are highly specialized, made for different uses.

They say—there is no advantage in combining a mild or neutral product designed for gentle washing of fine fabrics, with another to which an alkaline builder has been added for laundering heavily soiled fabric. Two Music Scholarship Awards Made by SAI

Marilyn Neal, of Paducah, (top), and Patricia McGuire, of Carmi, Ill., (bottom), are the winners of this year's annual Sigma Alpha Iota scholarship contest for high school seniors. They will enter Murray in the fall.

Patricia Louise McGuire, Carmi, Ill., and Marilyn Elizabeth Neal, Paducah, have been named the winners of the Sigma Alpha Iota annual scholarships Miss Helen Shelton, president of SAI, professional music fraternity for women, has announced.

Miss McGuire, a senior at the Township High school at Carmi, was given the $100 scholarship, and Miss Neal, a senior at Tighman High school was awarded the second scholarship of $75.

Miss McGuire is vocalist. Miss McGuire, vocalist, has studied music for seven years. She participated as soloist in the "Messiah" and in "The Seven Last Words," presented in Carmi. She also has done extensive work in accompanying for recitals and on programs. Pat attended the Egyptian Music camp at DuQuoin, Ill., last summer on a scholarship.

Miss Neal, who won the second scholarship, is a pianist. She also plays the violin and the organ. She played in the senior high orchestra for five years.

Given For Fourth Time

This is the fourth time that Iota Beta chapter of SAI has awarded scholarships to apply on tuition to Murray State. It is the second year that the fraternity has given more than one scholarship.

In 1949 the first scholarship was awarded to Margie Wilson, Rosella Shidai James was the 1950 recipient of the award. Three scholarships were given in 1951. Shirley Vineyard, Greenville, Davis, and Jackie Boswell received the three scholarships.

The Sigma Alpha Iota scholarships are presented on the basis of ability of performance, talent, and need, stated Miss Shelton.

Ladies Choose Hose By The Emotional Appeal Of The Name

By United Press

A man might go into a store and order a pair of brown nylon stockings for a woman. But a woman—never. If she knows what she's about she walks up and says: "I'll take some fifty-one-fifties in French mist, please."

And the salesperson knows what she means. While the numbers indicate the weight of the hose, the "French Mist" part is what sells the stocking.

Fashion expert Mary Murphy says the majority of women choose their hose by the emotional appeal in the name. Miss Murphy has been dreaming up names for stocking shades for the last 12 years as part of her job directing fashions for a hosiery mill.

Just plain brown nylons, she says, can be named "Tawny Tigress" and the woman will get a subtle lift from owning them.

The names of hosiery shades are changed about every six months so Miss Murphy says there's not much point in getting permanently attached to one. However, when she tried to change the name of a shade from "French Mist" to Morocco Mist she found the shade stopped selling. So back it went to French Mist and has been a best seller ever since.

"Women always love any French name," says Miss Murphy. "I've used names like 'Paris Touch' and 'Paris Grey' with great success."

Once she tried the name "Jezebel" for a black hose and sent the plan off to her manufacturer in Georgia. She described it as a "bold black for a feminine temptress." Back came a howl of protest from the male executives.

Says Miss Murphy, "I guess they thought it sounded too wicked. They renamed that shade 'Dark Diary.'"

YWCA Entertainers

National Officer

Miss Rosalie Oakes, from National YWCA headquarters, was the guest of the college YWCA February 28.

A tea was held for Miss Oakes and the organization's officers in the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bob Mowery, co-sponsor of the local YWCA.

Here & Yonder

Mr. and Mrs. Elmus Morris gave a birthday dinner Sunday March 2 in honor of their son Larry T. Morris, who was one year old.

Miss Ethel Fulcher of East Alton, Ill., spent last week end with her sisters and parents, Mrs. Elmus Morris, Mrs. Toby Runyon, and Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Fulcher all of Murray, route three. She returned to her job Monday.

Mrs. Ruby Woods, who has been ill is some improved this week. My heart felt sympathy goes to Mr. and Mrs. Steve Douglas of Auburn Heights, Mich., whose little son, six year old Steve accidentally hung himself.

I was sorry to hear Mrs. Guy Counts was sick and I hope she is lots better now. Also I'm sorry to hear Mr. Richard Self is sick with a cold and that Mrs. Ken Runyon has pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fulcher and their two sons visited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Self and family for a while Thursday night.

Cpl. Joseph A. Bick, nephew of Mrs. O. J. Fulcher, has been wounded and is now in the Navy hospital in New York. After all the officers were killed in Bick's platoon, Bick took over and commanded. He personally killed 14 of the enemy group and captured four others. His mother who lives in Alton, Ill., was notified. This is the second time he has been wounded in the Korean war. He has been in service four years and is 21 years of age.

Little Lana Fulcher is having a birthday March 9. She will be five years old and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fulcher of East Alton, Ill.

I hope this little chatter of news will be enjoyed by someone. I enjoy reading all the news in the good old LEDGER & TIMES.
